

EXECUTIVE BIOGRAPHY

Walt Fry

Walt Fry is the global domain product manager at CSC, responsible for developing the products and platforms that protect and optimize the domain portfolios of the world's largest companies.

Drawing on over two decades of experience in technology and product development, Walt identifies business trends in multiple industries and delivers proven, user-focused corporate solutions that anticipate client need. He's also been a driving force behind the technology platforms that have supported CSC's rapid growth to become the world's largest corporate domain name registrar.

Walt speaks on domain name security at panel discussions, conferences, and at universities.

He is a graduate of Boston University and holds a BA in mathematics.
